HAIKU SAKURA

by Yoshiko Yoshino

Preface

The great Japanese Haiku Poetess, Yoshiko Yoshino, died in December 2010.

Her Haiku Poem has a wonderful poetic intensity. One could set the Haiku-poem to music or translate it into another languages.

I have tried to visualize some of her Haiku. In spite of the change of the syntax, from the text to the figure, the semantics of mystery, which is connected with this Poem, remain and unchanged.

In her poems, she lives still presently.
